EISTEDDFOD-NY; Friday - Sunday, August 13th-15th
Festival of Traditional Music

We are in our second year of reviving one of the premier traditional festivals in the country, once again with the co-sponsorship and support of Polytechnic University. Seelyer in the centerfold of this issue and pull-out section starting on page 17. For a listing of staff and more information on the schedule, or go to www.eisteddfod-ny.org.
The Eisteddfod has a great history of 40 years, first in Pittsburgh, then in Massachusetts under the dedicated and inspired leadership of Howard Glasser. Howard remains as Director Emeritus and as a guiding spirit of the festival.

Last year’s festival was an extraordinary experience for all who were there, filled with superb music and wonderful community spirit. This year will be no less. This year we also have a new track of folklore presentations by Ed Cray and Steve Winick, brought to the festival with the support of Heritage Muse. At Polytechnic University in downtown Brooklyn (easily accessible from most anywhere in the area, see map near the centerfold in this issue). All buildings are comfortably air-conditioned

Volunteers Needed: The festival needs many volunteers to give us some help during the festival in exchange for free admission. Many jobs involve supervising one of the workshop venues.

Housing Needed: We need comfortable, hopefully air conditioned, housing for performers coming from out of town. Brooklyn is preferred, but we will consider any, especially if host is driving to the festival. Host gets free admission to the festival.

Transportation Needed: We need people with cars to transport people to and from lodging and the festival site – will not conflict with festival events.

For any of the above contact Alan Friend, 718-965-4074.

Support the Festival: Last year an outpouring of support allowed us to almost break even and thus to have a second year. Any support from members and friends for this extraordinary festival will be greatly appreciated by all who love this music and will allow it to continue. See the form on the flyer

Members prices are only for advance sale before July 15, so act now. All details are on the flyer. Further Info: Jerry Epstein 718-429-3437, Heather Wood 212-957-8386, Don Wade (718) 426-8555 Bring your family and friends!

NEWSLETTER MAILING; Tuesday September 7th; 7 PM

We need your help to mail out the next Newsletter. Join the important band of volunteers that sticks the stamps and labels and staples the pages to mail out this newsletter. At the Club office, 450 7th Ave. (between 34 & 35 St.), rm 972. Info: 1-718-426-8555

JUDY COOK House Concert; Friday, September 10th; 8pm

Judy Cook presents splendid unaccompanied ballads and songs from a huge and varied Anglo/American repertoire. Powerful variants of British ballads dovetail effortlessly with American narratives and sprinklings of whimsical pieces and spiritual anthems. Her presentation and delivery are a great example to any singer, and combine with her joy of singing to delight all listeners. Judy began performing professionally in the early 1990s.
Her first recording of unaccompanied traditional songs and ballads, If You Sing Songs, was released in 1998, the same year as her first singing tours. This was followed two years later by Far From the Lowlands. She has quickly come to be well respected as a singer and propagator of the old songs, on both sides of the Atlantic. General admission:
$13, NY Pinewoods members: $10. Reservations suggested, space is limited. For information or reservations, please call Evy Mayer at (718) 549-1344 (after 11 AM.) At the home of Mei-Mei Hammer, 7 W. 96th St #3C (nearest corner is Central Pk W.)

This is our July/August summer issue. Remember to keep this newsletter so you can look up our summer events. Our big event coming up is the Eisteddfod-NY. August 13-15. It was a great success last year and promises to be even better this year. One of the interesting events is a trip to Ellis Island or Liberty Island during the day on Friday, August 13. If you are interested, give me a call at 718-426-8555. We also need volunteers, so look for the information on the next page and give us a hand.

Our other exciting events include our “Sings”—Folk Open Sings, Chantey Sings, and especially for the summer—the Sing and Swim party; the Singing party at the Ritchie/Pickow’s; and a new Eat-Walk-Sing. We also have the weekly Sea Music Concerts on Tuesday evenings. Come and join us for a musical summer.

It’s not too early to think about the Fall Weekend. We need administrative staff for the weekend, and there are also scholarships available (see the previous page).

Thank you to last month’s newsletter mailers: Herb Feuerlicht, Isabel Goldstein, Suzanne Gottlieb, Brenda Pena, Anne Price, and Don Wade who delivered the pages from the printer. Won’t you join us on Tuesday, September 7th and help mail out the next newsletter? (See page 4 for details.)

ANN GREEN is in the process of redecorating her apartment. In addition, she is doing some writing in conjunction with an acting class that she is taking at a senior center. The class wrote and performed original monologues about personal experiences on May 23rd. Ann wrote and performed an amusing piece called “Enter Shushing” which concerns her experiences with disruptive members of theatre audiences, such as people who talk, rattle papers, etc.

ROSANNE LEVITT recently went on a two-week trip with Elderhostel to Andalucia, Spain where she watched birds, saw fantastic scenery and enjoyed great food. “The only missing joy,” she writes, “was the music!”

When SHEILA EWALL’s niece, MARNI SCHLESINGER, was a student at Boston University, her psychology professor was Tony Barrand. Sheila wanted Marni to see another side of the prof, so she treated her to a ticket to the club’s Roberts and Barrand concert for her birthday.

We have sad news - Sidney Krum, a long time club member passed away in May. He will be missed. Our condolences to Rick O’Connell and Marie Mularczyk on the passing of Rick’s mother Catherine O’Connell in June.

If you have news to share, contact me at 372 Central Park West, #15B, New York, NY 10025; tel: 212-663-6309.

You may make a fully tax-deductible contribution in any amount to any of the funds above by sending a check payable to “Folk Music Society of New York” (noted with the name of the scholarship memorial) to our office, 450 Seventh Ave. #972, New York, NY 10123-0101.

CD REVIEW

George & Ruth: Songs and Letters of the Spanish Civil War. With Tony Saletan, Sylvia Miskoe, Daniel Lynn Watt, and Molly Lynn Watt. 2 CD set Available from Educational Alternatives, 175 Richdale Avenue #315, Cambridge, MA 02140. 617-354-8242 or online from CDBaby. Reviewed by Steve Suffet

My parents were Communist Party members, or at least they were until the late 1940s, so I am familiar with most of the 16 songs in this two-CD album. I grew up singing Los Cuatro Generales, Freiheit, and Venga Jaleo. Other songs, such as Mr Tom Mooney Is Free, Woody Guthrie’s first explicitly political song, I learned later. Don’t Buy Anything Japanese and a couple of other songs are new to me, but the politics are the same. All the songs are period pieces from a time in the late 1930s when the Communist left reached out to democratic parties and governments in Europe and America to form a united front against Fascism. For the most part those overtures were rejected. We know what followed: the betrayal of Czechoslovakia, Franco’s triumph in Spain, the Hitler-Stalin pact, and inevitably, the invasion of Poland and the beginning of World War II.

But this album is not just a collection of songs, very ably sung by Tony Saletan to the accompaniment of himself on guitar or banjo and Sylvia Miskoe on accordion. It is also a presentation of letters between a young couple: George Watt, an American volunteer with the Abraham Lincoln Battalion in Spain from 1937 to 1938, and his wife Ruth Rosenthal Watt, who remained back in New York. Their son, Daniel Lynn Watt, reads George’s letters, while Daniel’s wife, Molly Lynn Watt, reads Ruth’s letters. Daniel and Molly discovered the letters among George’s effects after he passed away. Ruth had died many years earlier, soon after giving birth to Daniel.

The letters are haunting, even heartbreaking, but that is to be expected. George is optimistic from the time of his arrival until the Spanish Republican prime minister disbands the International Brigades and sends the volunteers home. But by then we can read between the lines: George’s optimism is a brave façade, the Republic has been defeated, and it is only a matter of time before it falls.

Yet for all their emotional impact, there is something strikingly familiar about these letters. George and Ruth write about politics, work, war, peace, joy, disappointment, love, dreams, disease, death, and the day-to-day minutiae of life. We find their missives filled with silly jokes, rhetorical flourishes, and not-so-subtle sexual innuendo, including George’s comparison of his machine gun to Ruth’s body. George and Ruth thus become the Everyman and Everywoman of every war ever fought. But they are not.

George and Ruth Watt are not fictional characters, nor are they archetypes. They were real people who together as a unit – he on the battlefield and she on the homefront – fought a war because they believed in the righteousness of the cause. Neither were they conscripts; both volunteered for their respective roles. Did that make them any different from those who fought on the other side? After all, there were foreign volunteers who came to the aid of Franco’s Fascists, just as there would later be Spanish volunteers who, in spite of Spain’s professed neutrality in World War II, fought alongside the Nazis on the Eastern Front.

On one level, that of common human experience, there was no difference. I am certain there was as much love, hatred, joy, suffering, bravery, and cowardice on all sides. But there is still one thing that forever distinguishes the defenders of the Spanish Republic from those who overthrew it, and that one thing is politics. To me, as to George and Ruth, and to Daniel and Molly, politics is both meaningful and important. This album honors those politics, and for that reason alone I recommend that you listen to it.

But there is more. George & Ruth is not just a pair of CDs; it is also a very moving live Show that Tony, Sylvia, Daniel, and Molly have taken on the road. Over the past two years they presented it at the New England Folk Festival (NEFFA) in Massachusetts, and they are now making arrangements to bring it to New York. If they do so, I urge you to attend. Not only will they get you singing all the songs; they will also reach deep into your psyche and spirit. Taken as a whole, George & Ruth is an overpowering, almost devastating blend of music and the spoken word, particularly when heard in live performance.

Recipe Dept.: Weekend Snack - Cheese Torta

If you wondered what the green-and-white tower that appeared on the weekend snack table was, here’s the recipe.

1 lb cream cheese
1/2 lb butter
cup of fresh basil leaves
1 tablespoon olive oil
1 tablespoon grated Parmesan or Romano cheese

Blend butter and cream cheese together (white).

Puree basil, olive oil, and Parmesan or Romano into a pesto (green).

Line a 32-oz yogurt container, flowerpot, or similar with cheesecloth

Staring with a layer of white, layer green and white alternately. End with white.

Put in fridge until firm (about 1/2 hour).

Remove from container, remove cheesecloth, cover with clingfilm Saran wrap, replace in container.

Bring to weekend.

Enjoy with crackers.

The Heritage Muse Symposium of Traditional Music
Saturday, August 14, 2004 -- Held in conjunction with the 2nd Annual Eisteddfod Music Festival, Polytech University, Brooklyn

This year, the first symposium features two papers/presentations and two workshops that are to be offered by selected scholars in the field of traditional music. This year's presenters are Ed Cray, Steve Winick, and Jorge Arevalo. The programs are spread throughout the festival day on Saturday.

"Ramblin' Man - Woody Guthrie" Panel Discussion. Journalist and folklorist, Ed Cray, author of the newest biography of Woody, joined by Jorge Arevalo, Curator of the Woody Guthrie Archives, offer an insider's look at one of America's best known political observers and songwriters. There will be plenty of time available for open Q&A.

"Bawdy and Ribald Songs" Workshop. Mr. Cray, who is also the author of the classic folkloric text "The Erotic Muse" will MC a star-studded panel of musicians in an uproariously funny session of folk-songs from bar-rooms, barracks, ward-rooms, campuses, and summer camps.

"Resurrecting Reynardine" Presentation. Many folk fans have been entranced by the ballad "Reynardine," which has been recorded by some of the best English, Irish and Scottish revivalists. The song, as sung by such stars as Shirley Collins, Martin Carthy, Isla St. Clair, Finbar and Eddie Furey, June Tabor, John Roberts and Tony Barrand, Sandy Denny, and even Buffy Ste. Marie, seems to be about a werewolf, vampire, or other supernatural creature. The traditional form of this ballad (as sung by many American singers such as Margaret MacArthur and Peggy Seeger) is quite different, however. Dr. Stephen Winick discuss various theories of Reynardine's origins, and shows how the supernatural interpretation was encouraged by English folklorist A.L. Lloyd, who substantially re-wrote the song. We'll look at the evidence for Lloyd's revisions and the reasons behind them, and we'll appreciate Lloyd as a creative artist, if an imperfect scholar.

"Ballad Structures" Workshop. Some folklorists have argued that in its traditional form, the ballad was not remembered by heart but recomposed orally each time it was sung. As evidence, they have uncovered latent structures in many traditional ballads. These structures are manifested in the language, the deployment of characters, the plot, and the use of description and dialogue. Attendees will get to analyze a number of ballad texts, showing that these patterns are real, not figments of the scholarly imagination. But questions as to whether these patterns mean what some folklorists say they do will also be addressed. This fun and informative session is part of Mr. Winick's regular undergraduate class in folksong at the University of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Cray is the author of 17 books, including most recently a biography of Woody Guthrie, Ramblin' Man, published by W.W. Norton earlier this year. A lifelong journalist, now a professor of journalism at the University of Southern California, he fleetingly considered a career as a folklorist in the 1950s before wisdom took hold. Nonetheless, he has maintained his interest in folklore and song since the great folk music scare of that decade. His anthology of American bawdy songs, The Erotic Muse (now in its second edition), is considered a standard reference work. He lives in Santa Monica with his wife, Diane.

Stephen D. Winick was born and raised in New York City. He developed his interest in folksong at Columbia University where he hosted a radio program in the late 1980s on WKCR-FM, playing Celtic, English and French materials. In 1989 he began writing for Dirty Linen magazine, and has not missed an issue since. He has also been featured in Sing Out!, The All Music Guide, Music Hound, and other publications. He is a graduate of University of Pennsylvania, where he studied with Kenny Goldstein and Roger Abrahams, among others. He earned his PhD in Folklore in 1998. Since 1999 he has been the Director of the Delaware Valley Folklife Center in Camden, NJ. He is also an e adjunct instructor at the University of Pennsylvania, where he teaches the folksong course formerly taught by Kenny Goldstein.

Jorge Arevalo is Curator of the Woody Guthrie Archives.

This symposium is made possible through a grant from Heritage Muse, Inc. (www.heritagemuse.com), a New York based, ePublishing company working in the field of literature, folk music, and folklore. Heritage Muse founder and CEO, David M. Kleiman, is Vice President of the New York Folk Music Society and is pleased to be supporting the Eisteddfod Festival.
The Eisteddfod is an entertainment, it is an educational experience, it is a reunion of friends, it is a time to enjoy. In addition to all that, it has a point to make. All of us who participate, by making or listening to music, by doing or admiring craftsmanship, value something we call “traditional.” The arts and crafts that were common in small, isolated rural villages were carried through the generations “by ear”... people heard or saw what they liked about the way other people did things and did the same, more or less. They emphasized the things they especially liked and forgot the things that didn’t interest them. Many years of this process gave the traditional arts and crafts a special kind of beauty, expressed through a local style. We no longer live in isolated rural villages — we are connected to “official” culture by television, by radio and records, by the plastic implements bought in supermarkets and discount stores. And some of this has its own kind of beauty or function...but it is not the kind of beauty of the old, traditional arts and crafts. Some of us who especially value the beauty of tradition have tried to capture it ourselves...and this has been called the “Folk Revival.” Some of us try to be living archives; attempting to reproduce folk art as we perceive it. Some of us try to find the essence of some particular tradition and create new things in that traditional style. Some of us apply the style of one tradition to a fragment of another — creating an original in spite of ourselves. All of this, and more, is part of this “revival” that does a lot more than “revive.”

As we do this we need contact with the preserved fragments of tradition...the field recordings of collectors, their books and raw notes, and the artifacts dusty in museums or shiny in antique shops. But more important than this is contact with a live person who creates traditional art. A recording can tell you one way it was done, but not the hundred ways it might have been done. It can’t distinguish between accidental variation and personal intent. It can’t pass on the essence — the subtleties that make one artist differ from another and yet belong to the same tradition. This can only be learned in the traditional way — from one person to another.

This, then, is the point of the Eisteddfod...that it is a time and a place where the performers and craftsmen of the folk revival can meet and learn from one another. It might happen in a concert, or an exhibit, or a workshop. But it might also happen between two people talking quietly in a corner. Without this we would enjoy the concerts and exhibits, enjoy meeting old friends and making new ones, or just enjoy a friendly ambiance. But without the learning it wouldn’t be the Eisteddfod.

We hope you enjoy yourself — and learn something that you will value.
